Here are your edits. I added in some language about the wall/border. My understanding is that TX/NM are opposed because they do not want more species listed in their States. However, due to the relative silence from the various State offices and lack of participation in the public hearings, the lead biologist's take is that the listing has reduced in controversy since the proposal. There just hasn't been a lot of interest in it. So, I kept that sentence as is.
